WHAT IS DAY CAMP?

Attending Girl Scout day camp gives girls, grades K – 8, the opportunity to spend an active summer outdoors at some of the most beautiful places in southern New England. Unlike other day camps, an all-girl environment makes it easier for girls to reach their full potential -- developing courage, confidence and character as they challenge themselves to try new activities like swimming, boating, rock climbing, archery and much more! All in a safe, nurturing environment.

Our summer sessions are jam packed with a bit of everything “camp”. Get creative with arts and crafts, investigate nature, enjoy the waterfront, challenge yourself to get up the rock wall and have fun with new and old friends. Girls in grades 4 and up will try their hand at archery! All the while enjoying activities related to the week’s theme.

Girls can attend multiple one-week sessions because each one has a different theme with related activities. And the optional Thursday night session is back!

Two-week day camp sessions for 6th – 8th graders who want a more in-depth camping experience that focuses on nature study and outdoor skills, such as fire building, outdoor cooking and shelter construction.

Special leadership programs are available to older girls who have leadership abilities, love camp and want to become part of the camp team.

Getting to and from day camp is easy with busing available from nearby communities. After all, singing on the bus is a true Girl Scout tradition!

WHAT TO EXPECT

At day camp, girls are grouped into units by grade and experience. Girls can identify one friend, (in the same grade), to be in their unit on the registration form, but they will make lots of new camp friends too! Units stay together for most activities, but there are also opportunities to enjoy the company of the other girls at all-camp gatherings, such as talent shows. Girls bring their own lunch and snacks. There is one camp-wide cookout each week.

The day begins and ends with the entire camp coming together for a flag ceremony. Throughout the day, girls participate in a variety of activities including hiking, games, sports, cooking, arts and crafts, singing and nature exploration. Depending on the camp, girls might also challenge themselves on a rock climbing wall, in a canoe or paddleboat, or on a high/low ropes course.

Swimming is a big part of Girl Scout camp. The goal is for girls to have two swimming sessions a day – one instructional and one free-swim. We provide instruction so girls can progress in their swimming skills – becoming more confident in the water and perfecting their strokes. During swimming, girls are grouped by ability and a trained waterfront instructor enforces strict safety measures.

When it’s really hot, the staff encourage girls to drink more water, stay in the shade, and – if possible – spend even more time in the pool or pond.
